Marek Bińczyk & Joanna Concejo

140 x 325 mm, 92 pages, hard cover, leporello 6.5 m long

A pair of brilliant characters, a pinch of humour and a charm of style – Marek Bińczyk, the winner of Nike, the most important literature award in Poland – serves us a seemingly facetious tale on happiness. „Happiness is nothing but trouble”, says Not-So-Little Prince, producing numerous reasons for the elusiveness of happiness. For Prickly Pear, happiness has the taste of pastries, pralines or the apple strudel. Amazing illustrations carry the characters from the pastry shop into a new dimension: the borderline between walking and sleeping.

The book is a masterwork, a piece of art – for all ages.

202 x 217 mm, 48 pages + 4 calques, hard cover

Once there was a man who used to work very hard and very quickly and he left his soul far behind him. Without a soul, he actually lived quite well – he slept, ate, worked, drove a car and even played tennis. Sometimes, however, he had the impression that everything was too flat around him, as if he were moving on a smooth sheet of paper from the math notebook, a sheet of paper covered with regular grids...

A touching story about waiting, patience and mindfulness – for all ages.

A beautiful story in which the fairy tale world interweaves with the world hidden inside every one of us. It is a story for younger readers who will listen to it with wonder, dreaming of magical encounters, and those grown-up ones who can still picture the different colours of life – both sad and joyful.

An extraordinary contrast between daily life and festivity: the book's huge format means you can not look at it in an odd moment, on the bus or in a queue – it has to be something you do deliberately, which is in contrast to its „sketchy” style and light, open form. This book, telling the dreams of animals, objects, buildings and plants, has verve and is superbly funny. It encourages thought and creative play. Awarded for its wealth of forms and for inviting the reader into a world of lively artistic imagination.
